

Title: University of Florida Veterinary Hospitals Technician Career Opportunities

Description: The University of Florida Veterinary Hospitals are comprised of the Large Animal Hospital (UF LAH), Small Animal Hospital (UF SAH), and Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratories which are located in Gainesville, FL. Also included is a satellite clinic, Pet Emergency Treatment Services (UF PETS), which is located in Ocala, FL and provides emergency services.

We are a major veterinary referral center treating over 43,000 animals annually from all over the world. Currently the UF SAH and UF PETS are AAHA Accredited. Furthermore, the UF SAH Emergency & Critical Care service is VECCS Level I Certified, the UF PETS facility is VECCS Level III Certified, and the UF SAH Primary Care & Dentistry service is AAFP Cat Friendly Certified.

As we continually grow in both square footage and case load, we frequently seek technicians that are interested in growing personally and professionally in the veterinary field and even those considering a technician specialty certification. Technicians should be motivated individuals who possess the drive to succeed in a busy hospital and have an interest in working in an educational environment.

Employment opportunities as a technician are available in the following specialty services throughout the various UF Veterinary Hospital departments:

- Anesthesiology and Pain Management
